From its elevated position on the corner of Yanko Avenue, this Fox Johnston Architects designed masterpiece balances an ambient north aspect and lush open views with a robust form designed to forge a lasting connection with nature and the outdoors. Essentially a liveable work of art, the home's sculptural facade is wrapped in deep terraces and crowned with a rooftop garden with succulent gardens created by Garden Life. Tasmanian Blackwood joinery and bespoke bronze finishes complement the raw beauty of the concrete structure while the interiors are defined by curated views and extend to a sequence of outdoor spaces and an 18m lap pool with Bisazza mosaic tiles that sparkle in the sunshine. Bold and strong yet serene and composed, this is a home that is not only architecturally inspiring but a joy to live in and has been crafted to stand the test of time. Walls of glass bring in light and vitality while an inspired design incorporates every conceivable luxury including a billiards room, infrared sauna, home gym and lift access from triple garaging to all levels.
